01/06/2012. Immunomodulatory effects of recombinant human interleukin-11 in patients with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection. Interleukin-11 (IL-11) is a cytokine that induces granulopoiesis and has immunomodulatory and cytoprotective activities. In this study, the therapeutic effect of recombinant human IL-11 (rhIL-11) was examined in 20 patients with HIV infection, showing that dose-dependent increases in peripheral neutrophils and lymphocytes were observed as early as 14 days after the first injection of the rhIL-11. Although the peripheral monocytes and neutrophil-to-lymphocyte ratios did not decrease after the treatment, the T helper/T suppressor cell ratio was increased by a significant level in the rhIL-11 group as compared to the placebo. These results indicate that rhIL-11 may induce an increase in lymphocyte subsets, including T helper cells, while not affecting the absolute numbers of peripheral granulocytes.
