----- How to use:
Click on 'Save' to save your installed search engines to a folder of your choice. Double click on the installed engine you wish to use. Type your search into Internet Explorer's address bar and hit Enter. Enjoy! Note: You can make your search engine search by keywords/terms or by filetype. In order to do that, simply double click the search engine you wish to use and then click on the 'Options' link at the top left. Version 1.0 is fully compatible with Internet Explorer 5 and above. Version 2.0 is fully compatible with Internet Explorer 6,7,8,9 and above. Features: * Vastly improve functionality of search engines available for use in IE. * Lists/reloads search engines for IE from command prompt with a one button click * Loads search engine(s) from command prompt for the first time. * Supports multiple search engines per IE's address bar. * Loads IE's shortcuts in the toolbar from command prompt. * Windows forms search engine. * List of options: - Options and shortcuts. - Open IE's address bar with a keystroke. - Option to reset/uninstall. - Quick Find Launcher (QFL) is an easy to use launcher for Internet Explorer. It provides easy access to the Internet Explorer search engines QuickFind and has been designed to allow users to instantly launch QuickFind without having to open Internet Explorer itself or go through menus or windows. QFL is easy to use and has some nice extra features not found in QuickFind. QFL

IE QuickFind (April-2022)

- * Search Internet Explorer's address bar for the search string you enter.
- * Search any site's search box.
- * Search any dictionary.com, thesaurus.com, or wiktionary.com page.
- * Search any homepage, a page at a web-based application, or the text of any document. * You can find any of these using QuickFind. * Copy and paste any text you found using QuickFind. * You can use the Fuzzy Searches option to search for near-match strings in your search string. * QuickFind can be controlled using the built-in keyboard shortcuts (Ctrl+Tab or Ctrl+Shift+Tab) and any shortcut keystroke combination you wish to use. * QuickFind will launch any URL in your Favorites, plus any URL in the Service list. * QuickFind will even launch any URL in your Shortcut tab. * Go to QuickSearch.com, and browse the quickfind features you like. * You can add any quicksearch features to IE. It's pretty easy. * NO EXE FILE is required, there is no install process. Just run iequickfind.exe to use it. *

NOTE: IE version 8 or later is required for the 'built-in' dictionary search options. Click here for how to change your default search engine. *

WARNING: With the built-in dictionary search, a slight performance hit is expected as each search engine uses a dictionary'snapshot' that is not updated during searches. This results in 'jumping' word lists. * NOTE: IE

QuickFind 5 is capable of quickly searching the web and all Internet search engines. QuickFind 6 is expanding this feature by adding the ability to search more generic collections of sites. * Choose from IE QuickFind 5 and IE QuickFind 6 for 10 days - free of charge. * Choose from the free 30-day trial and the paid full versions (they are the same product) for $49.99. There's no expiration date on either version. * QuickFind 5 has manual updates which are available for download directly. QuickFind 6 has automatic updates that are detected automatically. What is new in official

A simple but useful tool for enhancing your search capabilities IE QuickFind Features: Install new search engines on any browser that supports IE (Internet Explorer, Firefox and Safari) Internet Explorer is far ahead of the rest. No need to download Java, download Adobe, just hit a few keys and type in your query for IE QuickFind to instantly install a brand new search engine. Listen to audio files within IE QuickFind in a flash Including MP3 audio files (played within Internet Explorer), WAV audio files (played directly by IE QuickFind and requires no conversion) and all other popular audio formats supported by popular browsers like Windows Media Player, Real Player, QuickTime, WinAmp and more. A unique approach that does not require you to browse to another site when performing searches IE QuickFind includes a powerful search engine that's especially easy to use in the browser - but even easier to use when you want to share your search results within a powerfull text editor. Main Window: The main window of IE QuickFind shows you all of the installed search engines, along with your browser's title, version number and added functionality (ie. IE Navigation, JS search). Because IE QuickFind is a browser tool, the 'copy to clipboard' and 'print' options are also available (although the 'print' option seems to be intermittent at best, so maybe just consider this a 'view link' functionality). Each installable search engine includes a built-in address bar that can be used in any browser (this is the only place that you can enter a search query - you cannot open any other browser and access a search from IE QuickFind). Simply use this bar to enter a search query, along with any parameters you wish (if you want to search for the city a person lives in IE QuickFind will learn you what cities they visit most often, for example). Using the MetaData tab, you can see information about every search engine you've installed (this information is derived from the MetaData of the original search engine). The MetaData tab includes information such as the full list of supported data types, the results are displayed in page (or URL) order or according to relevance, how often a site is accessed (by all traffic), what language and geographical region the site is relevant to and more. The Search tab displays a number of additional features (but unfortunately it seems that nothing is doubts, but they aren't going to deride you with them. They aren't going to deliver a 2 and a half hour treatment to your private clinic where you find out you have an ear infection in the first 4 minutes of your treatment. They aren't going to charge you $1000. Then, when you are in the recovery room, you find out you have high blood pressure and need to be medicated. No one is going to do that at your private clinic. No one. I heard the news this week that there are 5,000 babies born in the UK every year that have serious medical conditions that are completely avoidable. Why do they do this? Why didn't the hospital catch the ear infection? Why were the mistakes made in the first place? When you are in the clouds of pregnancy, you don't see the point. When you are facing a terrified mother, the hospital isn't going to tell the mother her baby is going to die if she doesn't get that baby to that hospital, or the fertility clinic. The clinic isn't going to run tests when she is in the early throes of her pregnancy and she is seeing visions. What are the meds doing to her? The hospital isn't going to make sure a mother has a couple of nurses on the ward to take care of her and her baby.
