Linguix for Firefox Description: • Improves your writing experience by detecting spelling and grammar errors while you type. • Shows the most likely corrections to the errors highlighted by the extension. • Doesn't get in your way. It's completely transparent and you can continue your work without being interrupted. • Can be used to boost your vocabulary and improve your writing capabilities. Who is the target audience? • Anyone who's used to writing text on the web. • Writers, bloggers, journalists, writers, etc. • English teachers. Linguix is a professional proofreading tool and browser extension for web content written in English. It uses intelligent language detection algorithms and sophisticated technologies to not only identify spelling, grammar and punctuation errors, but also adapt to a writer's preferred way of presenting text and detect context errors, such as missing or misplaced words. Linguix doesn't provide any kind of corrections, but it does provide the most likely suggested corrections. By highlighting the suggestions in different colors, you can see at a glance the differences between the first and the second round. Linguix is available for Windows, Mac and Linux operating systems. Buy Premium Linguix for Chrome or Linguix for Firefox to get fast and efficient proofreading. I have been using Linguix for the last 3 weeks now, but I wanted to share my experience with it because I really like it. First of all, it's an addon for Firefox that you activate. Once you've got that, you are good to go. I've used it on different websites and blogs, and I can honestly say that Linguix really improves my work. It's smart and fast, but it does make some false corrections, which I find a bit annoying. It can also identify some small mistakes, which sometimes I miss. But the biggest advantage of Linguix is the fact that it compares the first draft with the second one and suggests the differences. If the second version has fewer errors, Linguix flags it and I

Linguix is a free extension for Google Chrome that corrects spelling and grammar automatically as you type. There are three different options available in the extension and they include: Linguix for Chrome Linguix for Chrome is an extension that allows you to choose among three different dictionaries (and sources) to improve your writing: - The Linguix Dictionary - Wikipedia - Wiktionary Apart from spelling and grammar checks, the extension also determines if you need to perform a backspace or insert a capital letter. The bigger the window the more options you have, but you can manually adjust its settings later using the extension's main window. Linguix for Chrome Still, the best thing about this extension is that it doesn't slow down your writing style. Its main purpose is to make you type more efficiently. Linguix for Chrome Linguix can be used to improve your writing skills by detecting errors as you type. To do that, you must first download the extension and then select the language you're writing in. As you write, the extension will highlight spelling and grammar errors while you're going through your work. It's not only a smart way to save time and avoid spelling mistakes, but also an efficient way to improve your vocabulary and writing skills. Moreover, you can even adapt the words you're typing to your writing style (as it helps you to build a stronger vocabulary and match writing style, tone and voice). Whether you're creating an email, article or blog post, Linguix for Chrome can help you make it error-free. Linguix for Firefox Description: Linguix for Firefox is an extension for Mozilla Firefox that makes your typing faster and easier.
